Society

New Club Organized.

The following written account of the organization of another new social club in Bryan was handed to the editor of this department Thursday with the request for its publication in these columns. The new club reporter tells us that the lettered title of this club is also of mysterious import, and, judging from its roster, must also be "grand, gloomy and peculiar." The report as sent in is as follows:

"The report comes to the society columns of the organization of another new social club, that promises much of pleasure to the fortunate few who comprise its limited membership. The name selected is 'O. A. J.' and the meaning of this mysterious title is a club secret."

"Tuesday a week ago the boys met at the home of 'Turkey' and the organization was perfected with the following officers: 'Slim,' president; 'Hungry,' vice president; 'Mule Ear,' secretary-treasurer."

"The first regular club meeting was with 'Lasses' on Tuesday afternoon, with the full club membership present, as follows: Messrs. 'Runt,' 'Turkey,' 'Speck,' 'Pustan,' 'Ikey,' 'Laxy,' 'Slim,' 'Hungry,' 'Mule Ear,' 'Lasses,' 'Bully' and 'Sleepy.' The meeting for next week will be with Mr. 'Key' on Tuesday afternoon. 'O. A. J. CLUB REPORTER.'"

Tuesday—The report of the first meeting of the "J. A. O." Club on Tuesday afternoon with Miss Belle Gainer, is prophetic of a delightful series of social hours to be enjoyed by these club girls during the summer. The spacious, shady porch, screened with a luxurious rose vine of rare beauty, was the setting for this affair, and with added cut flowers and ferns in baskets and brass holders, a veritable summer sitting room was completed. Mrs. Gainer assisted her young daughter in giving pleasure to the invited guests, and nothing was left undone that could have added a pleasure to the occasion. Artistic embroidery, crochet, tatting and dainty sewing occupied the busy fingers of these industrious club girls, and as they worked and talked and laughed, the afternoon was spent. A refreshment plate of salad, stuffed tomatoes, sandwiches, crackers and iced tea was an added pleasure.

Thursday—Miss Mary Louise Lester of San Antonio is the guest of her cousin, Miss Bess Spence, and on Thursday afternoon was honored at a beautifully planned porch party at the Spence home at College. Quite a number of Bryan girls were included in the guest list, and went out to College on the 4 o'clock interurban car. With characteristic hospitality, Miss Bess and her mother entertained the happy crowd most royally through the entire afternoon hours. A contest, entitled "Consequences," made lots of fun for all. A delicious refreshment course was served.

Friday Club.

Mrs. James H. Webb opened her beautiful home to the members of the Friday Club yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, and the weekly game of dominoes was thoroughly enjoyed under her direction.

The game tables were adorned with baskets of daisies and varicolored senias were arranged throughout the reception hall, music room and library. Mrs. Webb's charming hospitality made the hours most delightful and many expressions of appreciation from the guests assured her of the pleasant success of her club party.

Miss Noble Webb, the young daughter of the home, and Miss Belle Gainer assisted the hostess in serving delicious fruit and nut cream and angel food cake when the progressive game had closed.

The next hostess of the Friday Club will be Mrs. W. S. Wilson Jr., and she has invited the members to be her guests next Friday at 4:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Clarence Vick.

Notes and Personalities.

Mrs. R. V. Kernole and her granddaughter, Miss Lola Wilson, who are enjoying the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco, sent the following post card message from Los Angeles:

"After a delightful (?) trip across the desert where the thermometer bubbled around 112 in the shade, we are here at the Alexandria Hotel, in Los Angeles, enjoying our host suits. They tell us that overcoats are needed in Frisco. We are having a grand time."

Mrs. Dona Carnes writes this week from San Francisco:

"I am enjoying my trip immensely, the exposition is grand, the buildings and flowers are beautiful. Winter clothes and furs are comfortable out here. We leave tonight for Los Angeles."

Another message to cheer those of us who are left here at home announces:

"You are missing the grandest trip of your lifetime. The balmy air of California has made me feel twenty years younger, and I believe I look it. It is glorious here. Accept my sympathy."

Mr. and Mrs. John Herrington are at Madison, Wis., where Mr. Herrington is studying at the Wisconsin State University. They will be there until August 1, when they go to Chicago for the remainder of the summer, returning to Bryan in time for the opening of school at A. & M. College.

Miss Helen de Maret will leave next week for a visit to Corsicana and Dallas.

That the Bryan Public Library is being appreciated by the people is evidenced by the wonderful attendance in its attractive reading rooms daily, and also by the number of books given out. The librarian reports the number of books taken out last Saturday at 90 and the number taken out on Wednesday of this week was 101. The citizens of Bryan, especially those interested in her welfare, should see to it that the library book shelves and reading tables are filled with the very best reading matter in sufficient numbers to adequately satisfy the increasing demands.

The pleasant informal dances, enjoyed annually during the term of the summer school at A. & M. College, are in season, and the first one was enjoyed Thursday evening of this week by quite a large company of young people.

The learned physicians now tell us that worry is a disease. Are you a member of the "Order of Martha?" Or have you driven worry out of your mind and with strengthened faith realized that life is a wonderful gift after all?

A. & M. College and University Divorcement

Pertinent Reasons Why Resolution 34 Should be Adopted at the Election on July 24th.

SHOULD GRANT DIVORCE.

If the proposition were pending to establish anew a State University and a State Agricultural and Mechanical College, the Evening Journal unhesitatingly would declare for the establishment of the college as a branch of the university, or for control of both institutions by a single board.

But this is not the proposition with which we are confronted. We have the two institutions, each operating independently, but each embarrassed by a provision of the constitution which declares that the college, actually first established, is a branch of the university, started at a later date. Moreover, public sentiment, regardless of the views of this newspaper, unquestionably favors complete separation of the institutions, and a controversy rages which is good neither for the institutions nor for the State. Obviously, it is feasible to settle the dispute only in one way—by divorcing these two institutions.

The opportunity to accomplish this purpose is presented in one of the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted upon July 24, familiarly known as the "Sackett resolution." Happily, there is no provision of this measure which warrants opposition to the amendment. It will divorce the institutions and will remove the existing provision of the constitution which has embarrassed both in the matter of appropriations.

The proposed division of the university lands is fair, for the Agricultural and Mechanical College, as a branch of the university, always has been entitled to a share of these lands. Moreover, the friends of the university have recognized the equitable right of the Agricultural and Mechanical College to participate in the university's endowment. These friends, when the one-board proposition was under consideration, formally declared that they were willing to accept this plan, although it involved the university's sharing with the A. & M. the funds arising from its lands and other properties. If it would be fair to divide the income between the schools jointly managed, certainly it is fair to divide the property between them if they are completely divorced.

Regardless of the merits of the original controversy, it is evident that the public has grown weary of it and is disposed to put an end to the row by completely divorcing the parties and enjoining them from interfering with one another.—Dallas Journal.

LAWMAKERS ON SPEAKING

TOUR FOR SEPARATION

Advocating the Sackett resolution, which provides for the complete separation of the University of Texas and the Agricultural and Mechanical College and a distribution of the school lands, members of the State Legislature from Dallas this afternoon began a series of speeches.

C. O. Laney, James A. Florer and John E. Davis, members of the House of Representatives from this county, spoke at Lancaster at 2:30 o'clock. Before returning home to night they will speak at Miller, Ligon, Cedar Hill and Farmers Branch.

Mr. Laney voted against the Sackett resolution, but since its adoption he has decided that it is the best solution offered for the settlement of the controversy among the principal educational institutions of Texas. The resolution, which will be in the form of an amendment to the constitution, is to be voted upon July 24, along with other proposed amendments.

The resolution would give 600,000 acres of the school land to the Agricultural and Mechanical College, 150,000 acres to the Prairie View Normal and the remainder of about 1,250,000 acres to the University of Texas. It provides a way to make permanent improvements for the University of Texas.

The speakers left Dallas in an automobile at 1 o'clock. They were accompanied by C. O. Moser, president of the A. & M. Alumni Association; G. H. Pape, Joe Utay and F. K. McGinnis.

by those who have screened-in porches.

Miss Deolice Hickman, who is the guest of Waco friends, was the honor guest at a beautiful affair given at the popular country club of that city last week.

Mrs. J. W. Doremus returned Wednesday night from Manitou, Colo. Mrs. Ozelle Hoffman and children, who were with her there, will remain through the summer.

The J. A. O. Club meets next Tuesday with Miss Ethel Hall.

WEATHER FORECAST

(Copyrighted, 1915, by W. T. Foster.)

Washington, July 10.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent July 9 to 13, warm wave 8 to 12, cool wave 11 to 15. This disturbance covers one of the principal storm periods of July. Probably not the greatest, but of sufficient force to require attention. We approximately give the location of the warm waves, and the dangerous storms may always be expected in the warm waves. Our forecasts of these warm waves are more accurate as to longitude than as to latitude. By watching newspaper reports as to the location of the lows, when we forecast a dangerous storm, it will aid you in locating the places of danger. The warm wave will be from 200 to 400 miles southeast of the center of the low and the storm danger will be in the warm wave. Severe storms were expected in the warm wave forecasted to cross continent July 9 to 12, with greatest force west of meridian 90 about July 10.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about July 12, cross Pacific slope by close of 13, great central valleys 14 to 16, Eastern sections 17. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about July 12, great central valleys 14, Eastern sections 16. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about July 15, great central valleys 17, Eastern sections 19.

This is expected to be a more dangerous storm than the preceding. It will cause the hottest weather of the month. We have located the hot wave on Pacific slope July 13 and the storms are expected to be severe there at the time, but will probably decrease in force while crossing great central valleys 14 to 18. We advise, all to be on the alert for dangerous storms in Eastern sections not far from July 17.

About that time all weather events will move rapidly eastward and another disturbance will reach Pacific coast about July 16, cross Pacific slope by close of 17, great central valleys 18 to 20, Eastern sections 21. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about July 16, great central valleys 18, Eastern sections 20. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about July 19, great central valleys 21, Eastern sections 23.

This disturbance will bring severe storms from Pacific coast to central valleys, but after crossing meridian 90 the storms will grow weaker. For dangerous storm dates watch our forecasts of the warm wave and the newspaper reports of the lows. The cool wave of this storm will bring very low temperatures, and although July is not favorable to frosts some freezing may be expected where frosts sometimes occur at this season.

Rains of these disturbances will be well distributed, but some excessive moisture is expected. As a whole the crop growing sections of North America will get more than the usual amount of rain. The Pacific slope will get rains where precipitation sometimes occurs in July. Northern Mexico, Arizona and New Mexico will get more than the usual amount of moisture for July.

July crop weather on this continent will, as an average, be better than usual. Asiatic Russia is expected to be short of rainfall. Excessive rains are expected in the Philippines, Southern China, India, East Indies, Central America, West Indies and north of equator in South America.

We will give some crop weather forecasts for August in next bulletin. May be of importance as to spring wheat and cotton.

PURCHASED LIVERY EQUIPMENT

C. C. Shelburne has purchased the remainder of the equipment of the Tucker livery barn which was not burned when the building was destroyed some time ago, except the horses. Mr. Tucker has decided not to re-enter the livery business in Bryan for the present at least. He, however, expects to continue his residence in this city.
